Tire Tag Vs Towing Key Differences:

	Tire Tag	Towing
• Cost to Violator:	Reasonable fee (typically low, e.g., $135)	High towing cost (often $200+), plus potential storage fees
• Vehicle Removal:	The vehicle remains on property, easily accessible to owner	Vehicle is forcibly removed to an impound lot
• Owner Inconvenience:	Minimal – pay the fee and drive away	Significant – must locate the tow yard, arrange transport, and pay fees
• Fee Payment Resolution:	Violator can remove the tag immediately after paying the fine	May involve waiting periods, additional paperwork, and operational hours of the towing company
• Impact on Community:	Less aggressive; seen as a fairer alternative	Often viewed as harsh and disruptive
• Operational Efficiency:	Easier and faster for security officers to deploy and manage	Involves coordination with third-party tow companies, potential delays
• Violation Reporting:	All violations provide photos of the violation being enforced for viewing.	Vehicle is towed off property without knowing.
